

Plan for Global Government Comes Out Of the Closet

By Pastor Kevin Lea
November 13, 09

The prophetic books of Daniel and Revelation teach that in the last days there will be one final attempt to create a global government. Both Daniel and the Apostle John (wrote Revelation) saw that this fourth and final shot at global governance will become the most ferocious death machine the world has ever seen and that it will consist of ten nations joined together to be one empire (Daniel Chapters 2 and 7, Revelation Chapters 12, 13 and 17). Daniel also taught that this final global confederation will come out of the empire that would destroy Jerusalem and the Temple (Daniel 9:26). About five hundred years after Daniel's prophecy, the Roman (European) empire destroyed Jerusalem and the Jewish Temple in 70 AD. Therefore, if Daniel's prophecy about the end times were to come true, then we would expect to see a ten-nation, global confederation rise out of a revived Roman (European Union) empire some time in the future. As the following news items reveal, it is becoming obvious that the world is progressing towards the beginning of a global super-state exactly as the biblical prophet Daniel predicted.

A few short years ago, Europe was transformed from a continent of many sovereign nations into one entity referred to as the European Union (EU). The EU is ruled by the European Commission with its headquarters in Brussels Belgium. The following map of the world can be found at the European Commission's web site - http://ec.europa.eu/world/where/index_en.htm.

This link at the European Commission's site is referred to as, EU in the World. The map makes it clear that the European Commission is not satisfied with its authority being limited to the European Union. Instead, they have cut up the world into ten regions which they intend to rule in the future. The following is a list of the ten regions, copied from their site (with the links still active):

- North America
- Central America and Caribbean
- South America
- Western Europe
- Eastern Europe and Central Asia
- Mediterranean and Middle-East
- Africa
- North-East and South Asia
- South-East Asia
- Australia and Pacific

The EU's interactive map features a list of the current sovereign nations that exist under each of these regions (their list includes 174 nations, 20 short of what others claim to be the current total number of sovereign nations). It appears that those who are planning global government are expecting to spread the European experiment all over the world, leaving a final count of ten nations, each similar to the European Union (many becoming one).

If this is their plan, then we would expect that these leaders are also plotting against the national sovereignty of the United States of America. On November 7, 2009, Worldnetdaily.com (wnd.com) ran the following article which proves they are indeed trying to join the three nations of Canada, Mexico and the United States into one North American Union, exactly as the EU map shows:

PREMEDITATED MERGER

U.S. troops' continental insignia bears U.N. colors

Indicates advancement of plan to integrate North America

<http://www.wnd.com/index.php?fa=PAGE.view&pageId=115275>

Posted: November 07, 2009

11:00 pm Eastern

By Jerome R. Corsi

© 2009 WorldNetDaily

(Excerpted – click here to read entire article)

Army shoulder patch of North American continent in U.N. colors

NEW YORK – Troops in the United States' USNORTHCOM ranks appear to have adopted a shoulder patch showing a North American continental design, with an emphasis on United Nations colors, giving evidence of the strength of a plan to integrate North America.

The patch reveals the continent of North America in the orange and blue colors typical to the U.N. It also carries the image of a mosque to designate the unit's service in North Africa in World War II.

The insignia patch is displayed on the 5th Army website, the home of U.S. Army North, USARNORTH, the Joint Force Land Component Command and the Army Service Component Command of USNORTHCOM.

The design of the patch with the U.S. eagle image superimposed seems to imply a hierarchy in which the U.S. 5th Army exerts its military command under the authority of USNORTHCOM, with its domain defined as all North America, including the U.S., Mexico and Canada, for the United Nations, as implied in the orange and blue motif.

In 2007, WND published a six-part exclusive series detailing that USNORTHCOM is a U.S. military combatant command created to respond to national emergencies in North America.

WND also has reported that the U.S. and Canada signed a military agreement Feb. 14 allowing the armed forces from one nation to support the armed forces of the other nation during a domestic civil emergency, even one that does not involve a cross-border crisis.

The USNORTHCOM logo similarly displays a continental design, but without the U.N. colors, as is clear from the emblem displayed in the upper left hand corner of the USNORTHCOM Internet homepage:

USNORTHCOM logo on website

North America plot

WND reported last month the integration of the U.S. with Canada and Mexico, long deemed by many as little more than a fanciful "conspiracy theory," actually was an idea promoted by the Council on Foreign Relations and sold to President Bush as a means of increasing commerce and business interest throughout North America, according to a top Canadian businessman.

Thomas d'Aquino, CEO and president of the Canadian Council of Executives, the Canadian counterpart to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, confirmed in an interview recently published in Canada the accuracy of what WND first reported more than three years ago: The Council on Foreign Relations was the prime mover in establishing the Security and Prosperity Partnership of North America, or SPP.

A close reading of an interview with d'Aquino published by the Metropolitan Corporate Counsel Oct. 4 confirms that the creation of the SPP was not a "conspiracy theory" but a well thought-out North American integration plan launched by the Canadian Council of Chief Executives and the Council on Foreign Relations in the United States.

The interview further confirmed President Obama wants to continue North American integration under the rebranded North American Leaders Summit, providing the North American Competitiveness Council can be recast to include more environmentalists and union leaders.

In the interview, d'Aquino traced the origin of SPP to his concerns after the terrorist attacks on 9/11 that "there was a pressing need to keep the border open for commerce while simultaneously addressing the security needs of the United States and North America as a whole."

With this goal in mind, d'Aquino reported the CCCE by 2003 "launched an agenda that we called the North American Security and Prosperity Initiative, or NASPI."

WND reported in July 2007 the term "Security and Prosperity" first was used by the Canadian Council of Chief Executives in a Jan. 23, 2003, report, "Security and Prosperity: Toward a New Canada–United States Partnership in North America."

Then, in 2003, d'Aquino took the idea to Richard Haass, president of the Council on Foreign Relations.

"I helped convince Richard Haass at the Council on Foreign Relations that we should put together a trilateral task force to look at the future of North America," d'Aquino said. "We recruited John Manley on Canada's side, along with William Weld, former governor of Massachusetts, and Pedro Aspe, the former Mexican economy minister, who had been so influential in promoting NAFTA."

The result was a CFR Task Force on the Future of North America created Oct. 15, 2004, and chaired by Manley, Weld and Aspe, precisely as d'Aquino had recommended to Haass.

The CFR Task Force on the Future of North America issued an executive summary entitled "Creating a North American Community" on March 14, 2005, just days prior to the March 23, 2005, trilateral summit at Waco, Texas, in which President George W. Bush, then–Canadian Prime Minister Paul Martin and then–Mexican President Vicente Fox declared the SPP on their own authority, without any approval from the U.S. Congress.

The rest of the Worldnetdaily article omitted. To read entire article click here.

It is clear from Worldnetdaily's documentation that former President Bush and now Obama have been working behind the scenes with the leaders from Canada and Mexico to create an American Union.

On June 13, 2006, Worldnetdaily.com (wnd.com) published an exclusive article by Jerome R. Corsi titled, Bush Sneaking North American Super-State without Oversight. In this article, Mr. Corsi reveals that then-President Bush and the leaders of Mexico and Canada were planning unification by 2010.

On January 16, 2008, Jerome Corsi published another article in Worldnetdaily.com (7-Year Plan Aligns U.S. with Europe's Economy) exposing that the leaders of the soon-to-be American Union are also making ties with the European Union/Commission.

In the end, it appears that they (the shadow government conspiring against the citizens of the world) hope to create ten regional unions which encompass all current nations of the world. All regions will then tie the love-knot to become "one" under the global headquarters in Europe, exactly as the prophets of the Bible foretold would occur in the last days. When the nations come together in a global government, they will need a leader, and the Bible warns us that this leader will be the “Antichrist.”

There are many who still have their heads in the sand and scoff at the idea of global leaders gathering together as they chart a course to create a one-world-government. Hopefully, the skeptic can now see that the leaders of the North American Continent are indeed plotting behind our backs. The skeptic can also be cured of their naivety by reading the plans of think-tank groups like the Council of Foreign Relations and The Club of Rome (easily researched by doing a Google search).

In summary, Europe is now united; soon North America will be too. The Bible is authored by God (speaking through people) and He alone knows the end from the beginning. He told us that nations would come together in the last days to become a ten-nation global government. He did so thousands-of-years before they happened so that man could know who the true God is.

The scriptures also teach that we are sinners destined to perish in the Lake of Fire unless we receive the cure for sin, which is to humbly submit to God’s one and only Savior, Jesus Christ, and to receive Him as the Lord of our Life. I hope the reader has done so, because time is running out.

For those wanting to learn more about the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation, you can go to our web page (www.calvarypo.org) and click on sermon archives and then the book of Daniel/Revelation where we have a 16/21 part sermon in MP3 format (downloadable for free at this web address: ([http://calvarypo.org/pages/sarchives.aspx?Book=Daniel \[=Revelation\]](http://calvarypo.org/pages/sarchives.aspx?Book=Daniel [=Revelation]))).